

Jobs and economy: Building skills for life

With support from the fund, Steph Piper has acquired practical, hands-on experience and qualifications needed to secure a job.

£276K from the Pen y Cymoedd Wind Farm Community Fund enabled the social enterprise Community Impact Initiative to kickstart its 'Building Resilience in Communities' project which involves purchasing and renovating properties across South Wales, ensuring positive progression for the unemployed.

Steph said: "The course changed my attitude to both life and work, and gave me the confidence, motivation, and skills I needed to get a job. It was a fantastic opportunity and has helped me to turn my life around."

Pen y Cymoedd Wind Farm

Pen y Cymoedd is an onshore wind farm located in South Wales. Its 76 turbines became operational in 2017 and can produce enough electricity to power 15% of Welsh homes annually.
